

Entangled in the World Wide Web: Internet Addictions and How to Help Those Affected

The internet can be a great tool to escape from the pressures of the world, connect with others, and be entertained. However, online activities can cause impairment physically, socially, and professionally when it becomes the primary focus in one's life. In this presentation, we will learn how internet addictions entangle people in a fake reality that never fully quenches their endless quest for satisfaction.

Join us to understand:

- What are internet addictions and what do they look like?
- How are people affected by internet addictions?
- What is the treatment for internet addictions?

DETAILS

Duration:	One-hour presentation and discussion for those who feel over-connected to the internet.
Audience:	Can be formatted for parents, teachers, mentors, ministers, youth leaders and anyone who knows someone struggling with internet overuse.
Audience size:	Ideally 10-50 people, could also present to larger group of staff from school or church.
Cost:	$125

Presented by Jeremy Edge, Licensed Professional Counselor

Jeremy received his B.A. in Psychology at UT Tyler and M.A. in Community Counseling at UT San Antonio. He has five years of experience working with adults, teens and children in various settings, including ADAPT of Missouri and Every Child's Hope as well as private practice. He's lead an educational group for middle-school boys where they learned ways to become positive and healthy men. Jeremy has specialized in working with resistant fathers, families, and children. He currently specializes in working with teens and adults struggling with internet addictions.

To schedule a talk for your group, contact Jeremy at jedge@pccdallas.org.